

How have we the courage to
wish to live,

how can we make a movement to preserve ourselves from
death,

in a world where love is provoked by a lie and consists solely in the need of having our sufferings

appeased by whatever being has made us suffer?

